NATO Tovarich

WASHINGTON. - Now France is pulling out of NATO, there is room for another country to come in. Several nations have been proposed for membership but, for one reason or another their applications have been rejected. For example, in Spain. the members have vetoed Franco's application on the ground that the Spanish still condone bullfighting, which is against every-NATO thing stands for.

in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union is strategically located has a large standing army, which could cover Europe's northern and eastern flanks, and it has several ports that could easily be used for supply depots.

NATO's main role in the past has been to contain the Soviet But if the Soviet Union was permitted to join NATO, this would become a minor role, and our financial and military commitment could be cut in half without endangering European security.

Another advantage of having the Soviet Union in NATO is that the Russians already have nuclear weapons, so we wouldn't have to supply them with any. This would solve the major problem that the United States has had in dealing with its North Atlantic allies.

Besides its geographic location and its ability to field hundreds of thousands of troops, the Soviet ed with the State Department, iet Union already belongs to the Warsaw pact, made up of the Iron Curtain countries, and it would be hard for the Russians to withdraw from that pact to join ours.

But NATO has far more stand ing in the world than Warsaw, and it is believed the Russians would not hesitate to jump over to our pact if somebody asked them.

Of course, if you took in the Soviet Union as a partner in NATO, you would have to change the strategy of the alliance. NATO would have to have a new military threat or it would disintegrate.

That new threat could be France. and NATO's new role could be to President Charles contain Gaulle.

It is believed that with the Soviet Union in NATO De Gaulle wouldn't dare try anything in Europe and he would be convinced that any adventure on his part could mean instant retaliation, not only from the West but also from. the East.

De Gaulle is going to Russia soon, and one of the things he's expected to do is to try to persuade the Russians not to join NATO. But the Russians are expected to turn a deaf ear to De Gaulle's pleas. The only promise De Gaulle can hope to extract from the Russians is that, if they join NATO, France can take its place in the Warsaw pact.

Hyndman, Campbell Among 6 Yanks Left in U.K. Amateur

(AP).-Bill Hyndman, former 71 Carnoustie links, a 30-foot putt on the last green today and joined four other Americans in the last 32 of the British Amateur golf championship.

Hyndman, a 50-year-old insurance executive from Philadelphia, and Bill Campbell, former American Walker Cup captain, from Huntingdon, W., Va., were the big U.S. hopes as the championship moved intot he payoff stages.

Hyndman defeated Carnoustie golfer Norman Duncan one up, and admitted afterward: "That final hole was the greatest break of all time. I couldn't believe my eyes when Norman sent his second out of bounds."

The American had sent his oneiron second shot into the burn in front of the home green-a oneshot penalty. Then Duncan, with the match in his pocket, hooked his second out of bounds.

Both were on the green in four. Hyndman sank his long putt for a five. Duncan missed his putt and Hyndman had eked out his lucky victory.

Campbell, 43, defeated Walter Fondren 3d, of Houston, 5 and 4 and rarely was severely pressed.

Other American victories today

Richard Anthony, of Andalusia, Ala., 3 and 1 over John Young, of Scotland.

Truman Connell, of North Palm Beach, Fla., 7 and 6 over A.F. Brown, of England.

McCallum, of Fort 3 and 2 over Billy

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 8, swirled around the 7,059-yard, par-American Walker Cup player, sank delayed for a half hour until the mist cleared, but several times during the day it wandered back in and players had to make their shots more by instinct than anything else.

Michael Bonallack, the defending champion from England, beat George Rutherford, of Scotland 3 and 2. Ronnie Shade, of Scotland, another of the favorites, scrambled to a one-up victory over Jimmy Hayes, of England, and Townsend, the 18-year-old favorite from England, won after being taken to 23 holes by Finley Black, of Scotland.

David Symons, a 29-year-old South African and an Eisenhower Trophy player, went into the fourth round with a 4-and-3 victory over Frank Strafaci, of Miami.

Snead Can't Make U.S. Open Field

DETROIT, June 8 (UPI).—Sam Snead, a veteran of 25 straight U.S. Open tournaments, yesterday shot a 76-75-151, one stroke above the cut-off score, and failed to qualify for this year's classic.

Snead finished with birdies on the final two holes of the 36-hole qualifying round at The Country Club of Detroit, but his 151 total left him a stroke behind Dolan, Cary Toscana and Dale Douglas, who went into the playoff for the last two qualifying berths in the stional round.
